The Eighteenth Century Returns to Richmond

for one week with four concerts of fabulous chamber music from the greatest composers of the eighteenth century, from Bach to Beethoven. Joining us will be ten musicians from the United States and Europe, including Baroque violinists Florian Deuter and Monica Waisman, and the dynamic Escher String Quartet. We will also offer several free concerts during this special week, including our "Ear Project" concerts that combine performance and discussion.

The Eighteenth Century
RETURNS TO RICHMOND

APRIL 19 – 24, 2009

Baroque North and South

Sunday April 19, 4:00 p.m.

First Unitarian Universalist Church of Richmond

An evening of concertos and sonatas by composers from Italy and Germany—Vivaldi, Locatelli, Telemann and Bach—all played on period instruments.

Music Fit for a King

Tuesday, April 21, 7:30 p.m.

First Unitarian Universalist Church of Richmond

A concert of French Baroque music from the court of Louis XIV as well as an early string quartet by Haydn.

The Classical Ideal

Thursday, April 23, 7:30 p.m.

Bon Air Presbyterian Church

Go beyond the Baroque with the Escher String Quartet, in a concert featuring two beloved string quartets from the Classical period: Haydn's "Sunrise," and Mozart's "Hunt."

Music at the End of a Century

Friday, April 24, 7:30 p.m.

Bon Air Presbyterian Church

We end our 2009 Festival with music written toward the close of the eighteenth century, including a piano concerto by Mozart, and one of Beethoven's innovative early string quartets.

Ear Project Concert

Saturday, April 18, 11:00 a.m.

Magnolia Grange

In this intimate event held in historic Magnolia Grange, renowned Baroque violinists Florian Deuter and Monica Waisman will perform and discuss music from eighteenth century France.
